Rating Symbols and Definitions

Lianhe Ratings Global Limited ("Lianhe Global") assigns credit ratings to issuers and their issuance of financial instruments. Issuer and issuance credit ratings can be long-term and short-term. Long-term credit ratings address default risk over the long term, while short-term credit ratings address default risk of no more than a year.

The issuer rating focuses on the issuer's capacity and willingness to meet its financial obligations as they come due. The issuance rating takes into account the nature of and provisions of the issuer's specific financial obligation and assesses its capacity and willingness to meet its financial commitment on this obligation.

In addition, Lianhe Global assigns Insurer Financial Strength ("IFS") Ratings. An IFS rating represents Lianhe Global's opinion about an insurance organization's ability to meet its obligations to policyholders in accordance with the terms of insurance contracts and can be long-term and short-term. Long-term IFS ratings address insurers' capacity to meet their obligations to policyholders over the long term, while short-term IFS ratings address insurers' capacity to meet their obligations to policyholders of no more than a year.

A credit rating is a forward-looking opinion which addresses the creditworthiness of an entity or security and is an opinion of relative vulnerability to default, instead of indicating a certain probability of default. Credit ratings do not address market price, marketability, and/or suitability of any security nor its tax implications or consequences.
